DAVIS CENTER FOR RUSSIAN AND EURASIAN STUDIES
Doctoral Dissertation Completion Fellowships
Deadline: Friday, February 12, 2016

FELLOWSHIP DESCRIPTION
The Davis Center for Russian and Eurasian Studies conducts an annual competition for full-year fellowships for the completion of a doctoral dissertation in the humanities or social sciences pertaining to Russia, Eastern Europe, or Central Asia. The fellowships include a 10-month living stipend, plus funds to cover the Harvard facilities fee and individual health insurance. Office space and access to computer facilities at the Davis Center will also be provided, though residency is not required. The Davis Center matches its stipend level to the GSAS standard annual stipend for dissertation completion fellowships, which was $26,800 in 2015–16. GSAS has not yet set the annual stipend for 2016–17; the stipend amount is subject to change.

ELIGIBILITY
The competition is open to Harvard doctoral candidates in the humanities or social sciences who anticipate completion of the dissertation by May 15, 2017. Applications will be judged by their overall merit, the importance of the topic, the clarity of the proposal, the potential for scholarly contribution, and the likelihood of timely completion.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS
Please electronically submit to the Davis Center the completed GSAS standard CARAT form with supporting materials uploaded as specified in the standard application instructions.

All application materials must be submitted by the application deadline (February 12, 2016).

REQUIREMENTS
Recipients may not accept other fellowships for the award year; however, the Davis Center will consider requests to accept a partial award in conjunction with this fellowship. No teaching is permitted during the award year (including tutorials).
